

For the month of November, COAA FLIC is highlighting Ryan Lowe, Area Manager at Enbridge Edmonton Terminal, as the Leader of the Month. Enbridge

Ryan leads a diverse, energized team of 60 direct and indirect reports with a focus on safe and reliable operation and maintenance of terminal and pipeline infrastructure for transportation of crude oil. His team sees their role in society as absolutely critical, to deliver energy that fuels quality of life for millions of people across North America.

Ryan moved to the Edmonton area about 1 year ago, after nearly 12 years with Enbridge in Fort McMurray. While in Fort McMurray, he had the opportunity in various leadership roles in Terminal Operations, Pipeline Maintenance, and Technical Maintenance. Outside of work, he was a board member of the Fort McMurray Search & Rescue organization. Since transitioning to Edmonton, he has taken on vice-chair role of an industry mutual aid organization – SDMAP (Strathcona District Mutual Assistance Program).

Outside of work, he enjoys spending time with family at the lake and coaching baseball with two young sons.

Developing others is an important responsibility we have as leaders. Participating in Mentorship programs, creating job swap opportunities, and establishing an Indigenous Apprenticeship Program are just a few of the ways we demonstrate our commitment to a proud and energized team.

Developing as individuals is also important. Currently, he is focused on learning through study, recently joining the Executive MBA program with the University of Alberta.

Ryan's leadership qualities and his contribution to work, family, and personal development are what make him the leader of the month.
