2019 Ledcor Cares Award – Contributing to the Community

Meghan Thomson and Alexandra Sams, employees in Ledcor's Edmonton office, were recognized earlier this year for their influence on others through their giving spirit, leadership and drive to make a positive impact on children in their community.

Both women are passionate about the local charity Kids Kottage, dedicated to keeping children safe when their families are under stress. They have spent countless hours volunteering their time with other Ledcor colleagues and planned the Imagine Gala in 2019, their biggest fundraiser.

When Meghan and Alexandra stepped in to plan the Gala, they tapped into their personal networks to find entertainment and sponsors for the event. They both played a significant role to the success of this event, resulting in a sold-out evening that raised more than $120k. As a company, Ledcor is a proud supporter of Kids Kottage for several years.

Alexandra and Meghan also serve on the board of directors for The Alberta Women of Industry Committee. This committee hosted its first annual golf outing in 2019, and the women influenced the committee to donate $11k of the proceeds to Kids Kottage.

Meghan also volunteers at Mustard Seed, preparing and serving meals at homeless shelters. Alexandra is a regular blood donor, and she consistently organizes support for her colleagues in need.

The list goes on when it comes to the generosity of these two women and their positive influence on others in their community. Thank you, Alexandra and Meghan! For more information on Kids Kottage or how to support this outreach organization, visit its website at www.KidsKottage.org.
